Market Commentary:

The EGX30 remained under stress most of the session as most of the stocks fell sharply pulling the index to violate the minor support level 10550.

Further decline is expected to reach our support level 10350 but still nothing to be done on until clear positive signals shows.

We still recommend staying on cash till a clear reentry signal is clearly given specially that the market risk was elevated by breaking below 10680.

Increasing trading volumes is an important to show on any rebounding attempt to prove real buying strength otherwise any upward move will only be an up correction.
